

CENTER for SECURITY and
EMERGING TECHNOLOGY

Remco Zwetsloot

Research Fellow

Remco Zwetsloot is a Research Fellow at Georgetown's Center for Security and Emerging Technology (CSET) focused on global talent flows in AI and their policy implications. His writing on AI has appeared in the Wall Street Journal, Washington Post, Foreign Affairs, Lawfare and other publications. He is also a Research Affiliate and Ph.D. (D.Phil.) Scholar at the University of Oxford's Center for the Governance of AI. He has previously worked at OpenAI and holds degrees from Yale University (M.Phil., Political Science), the University of Oxford (M.Phil., International Relations) and University College Roosevelt (B.A., Social Science).

cset.georgetown.edu

@CSETGeorgetown

Sign up for our newsletter at policy.ai